

St Gregory's Celebrates World Book Day!

Thursday 4th March is World Book Day!

We have been busy thinking of ways in which we can still mark the occasion even though many of you are working at home, whilst ensuring that the day raises the profile of reading and is still lots of fun! Read below to see what we have planned and how you can get involved ...

The Masked Reader

ITV have got nothing on us!

Listen as staff read or perform an extract from their favourite story.

Look out for any clues they may give you so that you can try and guess who's behind the mask?!

A Virtual Character Parade

Celebrate the day by dressing up as your favourite book character!

Take a photo of yourself and send it to us at photos.sg@romeromac.com

We will then create a Virtual Character Parade for you to watch with your family from the comfort of your own homes!

Final call for photos is at 10am please!

Extreme Reading Competition

Take part in our competition to see who can find the most extreme place to read a book? If you think you have got what it takes, take a picture of yourself reading in the most extreme location you can find and email it to photos.sg@romeromac.com

Those judged the 'most extreme readers' will be awarded a special prize!

A 'Veggie' Special Character

Can you use a vegetable to create a model of a well known book character? A potato works best, but other vegetables may look just as good!

There will be prizes for the best entries - send photos of your veggie special creations to photos.sg@romeromac.com

Snuggle Up with a Book!

Sign up for a story session with one of our staff members.

Links will be emailed out to parents with a time slot for you to join.

'Snuggle Up with a Book' treat boxes will also be available for you to order with all money raised going towards our 'new look' library!
